The data for this conference was provided as a comparator at rank B. It is a fairly small conference (about 15 papers) with quite competitive acceptance rates (around 30%) and involvement of established researchers as Chairs. About 50% of the PC are established researchers and the majority of these have published in the conference in the last 5 years, some in multiple years. It is well above average for the FoR code on both citations and author h-index. It clearly should retain its ranking of B.
