The conference received a submission to maintain its rank of A* which seems justified. However, starting from this year, this conference has moved to a journal model, and has joined The Proceedings of the ACM on Interactive, Mobile, Wearable and Ubiquitous Technologies (IMWUT). This journal is currently unranked but because all ACM UbiComp papers are sourced from this journal one should argue it maintains the same rank (A*). This would further support the ranking of the conference if not marked as journal published.

While relatively small, the conference maintains a low acceptance rate (19-27%) and involves senior academics in its organisation. More importantly it has an H5 index of 24 and this visibility is also reflected by the number of submissions from key researchers (56 submission by 18 out of 28 identified experts).
