The ranking of the conference was on review and the submission requested a reranking from A to A*, which was not found to be justified. The committee agrees that ICLP is the premier conference for logic programming, but found that ICLP is not comparable to other A* conferences in quality, visibility, impact, and reach. The acceptance rates (38-51%) are on the high end for A-ranked conferences, but this is partially explained by the proceedings being published in the TPLP journal with a 2-stage reviewing process. The committee found that the data supports the current ranking of A, but not a reranking to A*.
