Decision

Conference to be ranked as B

Justification

The citation statistics for this conference closely match the average for CORE rank B conferences. Likewise, the h-index of strongest authors is consistently below the average for CORE rank B conferences.

This conference is clearly well established, and the top ten participants are well recognised and publish regularly at the conference. A detractor is that only a minority of area experts have published in the conference within the last five years, which is low compared to other CORE A conferences.

The PC has comparatively low involvement from senior academics.

The Committee notes and commends the organisers of this conference for their success in promoting diversity within the conference leadership.

The committee was unanimous in recommending a B ranking.
