This conference requested to be added at rank A. It is a rather small conference (around 22 papers), though in an important and growing area. The median h-index of the PC is 14, with 20 of the 54 members being established researchers. These PC members are publishing in strong A* venues, and 10 of them also published in HCOMP. The optional list of 20 top people showed 5 publishing in HCOMP, but mostly only one year. No additional citation data is available as it is not in SCOPUS. The group felt this is rather borderline and prefers that it be added at B, and then can apply again in a future round, when perhaps numbers have consolidated and it can more clearly be ascertained whether it should be A. It will be added as a "good to very good" conference at rank B.

Note that one person in the group was uncertain and felt there was insufficient information for them to have an opinion.
